Acknowledgement of Binding Nature of College Match

The QuestBridge College Match (QCM) is a binding program done in lieu of other Early Decision and Early Action programs. Applicants who are sure that one of our partner schools is a first choice for them should consider this option. Guidelines for the QCM are as follows:

1. Finalists participating in the QuestBridge College Match (QCM) must submit their final ranking form available at http://www.questbridge.org/cmp/final_rankings.html by Nov. 1 2006, 11:59pm PT. In doing so, they are stating that they want to be considered for admissions at one of our partner schools, and that they will enroll if admitted.* QCM candidates may file Regular Decision applications at other colleges, but only with the understanding that these applications will be withdrawn and no new applications will be initiated if they are "Matched" with one of our partner schools. It is a violation of the regulations of this program to file an Early Decision or Early Action application elsewhere.
2. Responsibility for understanding and complying with the rules of the QuestBridge College Match rests with the candidate. Should a QCM candidate violate the provisions of the program, colleges may withdraw their offers of admission and financial aid from the candidate
3. The QCM affidavit must be signed by the applicant and a parent in order to affirm that they fully understand the provisions of the QCM agreement.

*Being "matched" at Stanford is not binding. You will not have to withdraw other applications if matched with Stanford. You are not required to attend Stanford, if matched.

I am a candidate for the QuestBridge College Match and agree to abide by the rules described above. I have not submitted another Early Decision or Early Action application. If matched with one of QuestBridge's partner schools, I will immediately withdraw applications at all other colleges and will enroll at that school.
